

PRIVACY POLICY

Personal Identifiable Information

ATCOM is concerned about your privacy and how we collect and use data that may identify you as a particular person when you visit our website, fill out information or support request forms, join us in a webchat or any other event that you volunteer or offer. Personally Identifiable Information (PII) such as your name, address, phone number or any information that you may offer to us voluntarily is used and retained only for the sole purpose of providing you the services, information and support that you have requested. ATCOM does not sell, provide or rent any collected Personal Identifiable Information to third parties.

Non-Personal Identifiable Information

Sometimes ATCOM may collect information about you that is not PII or Personal Identifiable Information. Examples may include your IP address, how you got to our site, browser version any other data that can't be used to identify you as a particular person.

Third Party Sites & Services

This Privacy Policy is confined to activities within our control within the services we provide. ATCOM may use or provide access to third party services or websites to enhance your experience such as form submissions, informational as well as social media & marketing sites. These services and sites may have their own respective policies regarding how they use your information

Changes to this Privacy Policy

ATCOM will post any changes to this policy on this page. It is the user's responsibility to check this policy should they have concerns regarding how ATCOM values and handles information obtained in its websites and services. Questions regarding this policy may be directed to our Support Team at Support@atcombts.com